Kentucky Lawyer

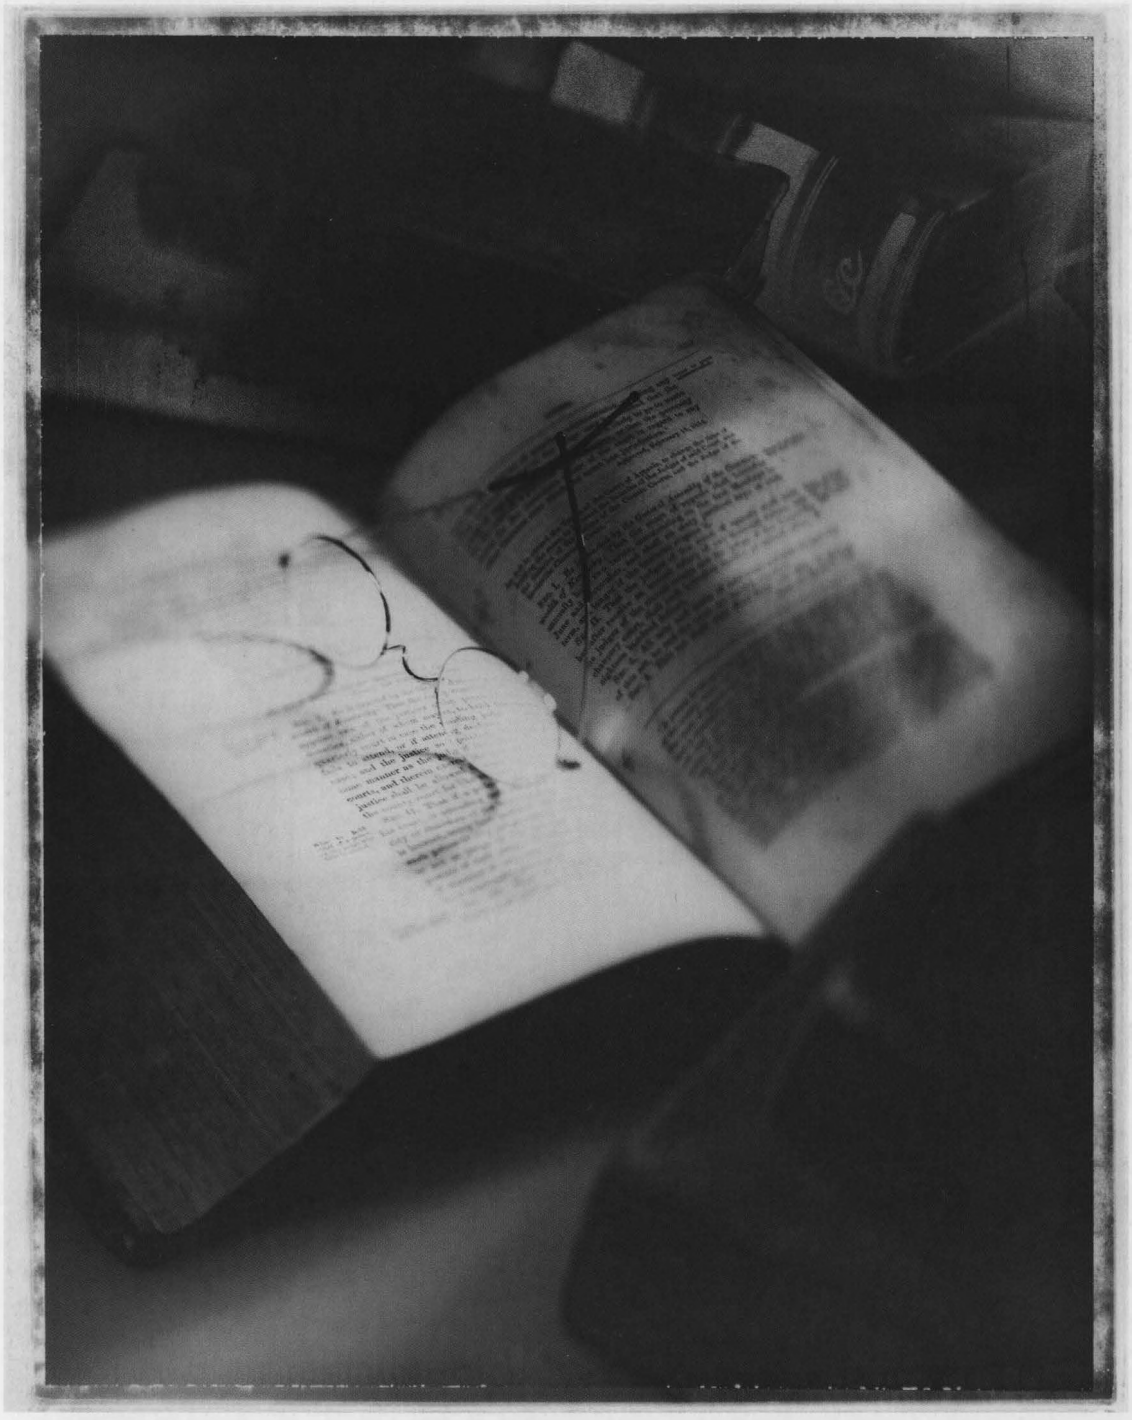
University of Kentucky College of Law



UK

December 1998

Dear Alumni and Friends:

I am pleased to be addressing you in my new role as Acting Dean. After 23 years on the UK law faculty, I was asked to assume this position shortly after David Shipley announced last spring that he would be leaving to become Georgia's law dean. In his five years at our school, David made a lot of friends among our alumni, and his leaving was a time of sadness for all of us who care about the College of Law.

But the College remains strong, and our future is bright. We have an excellent group of students, a first-rate faculty, and a hard-working staff. The support we receive from our alumni and other friends is inspirational. Being the dean of this school is a high honor, and I believe that a number of distinguished individuals will seek this position.

Our Dean Search Committee, which includes four alumni and one student, is well along in its work of screening candidates, with the goal of having a new dean in place by July 1st. Other important events in 1998-99 include an A.B.A. inspection and a University review of our College and our active participation in the University's new capital campaign, which seeks to double both the dollar amount of our annual giving and our overall endowment in the next five years.

A special part of being the UK law dean is the opportunity to get to know so many of our talented and successful alumni. I am proud of you—and of what your achievements say about the quality of our school. In my travels in and beyond Kentucky, I have been impressed with how many of our graduates have taken on leadership positions in their communities and in the profession. Many of you have achieved great things; and as a group, your talents and energy amount to a huge resource for our state and Nation. I am proud to be the dean of your school.

Stop in and see us when you're next on the Lexington campus. You, too, will find much to be proud of in your law school.

Sincerely,

Robert G. Schwemm

Legal Clinic Educates

Law Students While Serving the Elderly

by Professor Allison Connelly and Laurie Warneck, Clinic Student

Reflecting on her feelings toward the Clinic and its students, one elderly client said, "I look up to you... All of you are my heroes. You helped me in my troubles. I really admire all of you. When I'm depressed, I think of you because it reminds me there are good people in this world."

"Working in the Clinic reaffirmed for me the sense of helping that got me into law in the first place…It gave me a chance to help two indigent elderly women, who were willing to clean buildings in order to put food on the table. We were able to get the money they had worked so hard to earn from a company that had skipped town without so much as a second thought for them. Along the way, I learned that justice and democracy are preserved in small victories, not just large ones." Jason Reed, Class of 1998.

Now in its third semester of operation, the UK Law Clinic has provided over one hundred low-income, elderly individuals with free legal services. During the last three semesters, Clinic students have filed four lawsuits, written numerous wills and deeds, resolved contract disputes, and represented abused elders in domestic violence cases. In addition to live client casework, the Clinic has provided students with substantive legal training in many areas such as interviewing, counseling, advance directives, elder abuse, and guardianship proceedings.

Clinic students have also participated in many special projects to promote the Clinic, the law school, and the legal profession. They have participated in community action programs and have increased the public's awareness about the legal needs and rights of the elderly. These projects include three television appearances, ten speeches and presentations to various legal and civic groups, and a new community outreach program called "The Harrison Elementary School Project."

"The Harrison Elementary School Project" required Clinic students to visit a fifth grade class at an inner city school in downtown Lexington on four different occasions. Over the course of these sessions, the students discussed constitutional rights, legal procedures, and job opportunities. The program culminated with a class trip by the fifth graders to the College of Law courtroom where they participated in their own mock trial in the case of Commonwealth v. Goldalocks. Laurie Warnecke, the Clinic student who initiated the project, noted that she "wanted these kids to think about their potential…When we started the project, the kids said that they could not wait to get out of school, and only a few of them raised their hands when we asked them if they wanted to go to college. By the end of the project, almost every student raised a hand when we asked them if they wanted to go to college after high school."

Finally, the Clinic applied for and received two grants totaling $23,000 from the Kentucky Bar Foundation and the Kentucky IOLTA Fund. These funds will be used to revamp, publish, and distribute one of the Kentucky Bar Association's most popular publications entitled "Law and Programs for Older Kentuckians."

In short, the College of Law Legal Clinic has successfully taken the first steps toward its educational goals of academic excellence through the development of practice skills and promotion of ethical values and responsibilities. It has begun to integrate itself into the community in which it operates. More importantly, as Professor Connelly noted, "by putting a human face on the legal problems and needs facing older individuals, the Clinic has promoted an understanding of the need for fairness and justice in our legal system, and has translated those needs into a valuable educational experience."

The Rapidly Changing Landscape of CONFLICT Resolution

by Thomas J. Stipanowich, W.L. Matthews Professor of Law

These days, those of us involved with mediation, arbitration and other forms of conflict resolution often feel like kids in a candy store. Rapid changes in the landscape are creating numerous opportunities for involvement on all levels—local, regional, national and international. As law practice evolves to be more deliberate about dispute resolution process choices, law educators and law students are moving to embrace a wider variety of tools for resolving disputes of all kinds.

Since some of us participated in the development of a model court-connected community mediation program, the Mediation Center of Kentucky, the concept of mediated negotiation with the assistance of a third party facilitator has continued to proliferate here and elsewhere. Besides assisting the Center in the development of ethical standards for mediators, Professor Bill Fortune has established a reputation as an able facilitator of a broad spectrum of cases.

As practitioners encounter mediation programs in a growing number of federal and state courtrooms and agencies, UK law students may not only learn about mediation and other alternatives in a survey course, but may garner practical mediation experience in local courts and agencies. Professor Carolyn Bratt was instrumental in establishing a partnership with the Kentucky Natural Resources Cabinet for the purpose of setting up an environmental mediation practicum in which law students co-mediate actual disputes involving the Cabinet; mediator Bert Harberson teaches the course.

The proliferation of mediation has stimulated reform efforts at several levels. A committee of the National Conference of Commissioners on State Laws labors on the first draft of a Uniform Mediation Act to govern court-connected mediation procedures. At the same time, through the CPR/Georgetown Commission on Ethics, a number of us in academia have joined with other professionals and several national organizations in the development of ethical standards for neutrals in alternative conflict resolution, for organizations providing conflict resolution services, and for attorneys counseling and representing clients in these venues.

There is also renewed interest in the role of binding arbitration, in which private tribunals take the place of judges and juries to resolve civil disputes of all kinds.

Those of us advising the NCCUSL Committee charged with reforming the Uniform Arbitration Act, the model for state court enforcement of arbitration agreements in Kentucky and throughout most of the country, are seeking to enhance the law's ability to deal with the much broader demands now placed on arbitration as a "court substitute" without sacrificing those things (such as procedural efficiency) which make arbitration an attractive alternative to courts. Through another group, the CPR Commission on the Future of Arbitration, we are attempting to further similar goals by developing "best practices" on everything from arbitrator selection to the conduct of arbitration hearings.

The needs of everyday users are stimulating closer examination of arbitration and conflict resolution clauses in brokerage, banking, employment and other consumer agreements. Along with the SEC, the Securities Industry Conference on Arbitration oversees policymaking on behalf of investors and the general public. In response to public concerns, a number of other organizations have also sponsored consumer initiatives such as the Employment, Consumer, and Health Care Protocols published in recent years. Such protocols attempt to ensure that the basic expectations of employees and consumers are met in contract-based conflict resolution agreements. Hopefully, they will also influence the course of the law governing such contracts.

Arbitration and out-of-court processes are of particular value in the international arena. Professor Alvin Goldman has a longstanding international reputation in the field of labor and employment law—an arena in which mediated negotiation and arbitration have long been used. Professor Steve Vasek, who teaches international business transactions, mentors UK students in a yearly international "moot" competition involving presentation of briefs and arguments on current issues in international commercial arbitration. A new seminar developed with the assistance of the Patterson School of Diplomacy, "Emerging Issues in Conflict Resolution," will focus on international as well as domestic themes.

Perhaps the most interesting developments in conflict resolution are efforts to address the very roots of conflict in contractual and personal relationships. Lawyers, like others, will become more attuned to the possibilities of facilitated problem-solving in long-term relationships—and better understand the ways in which attorneys may assist clients in minimizing or channeling conflict inside and outside the court system.

Thomas J. Stipanowich, W.L. Matthews Professor, is co-author of an award-winning treatise on federal arbitration law, Reporter for the Consumer Due Process Protocol, Director of the CPR Commission on the Future of Arbitration, Academic Adviser to the NCCUSL Drafting Committee to Revise the Uniform Arbitration Act, a Public Member of the Securities Industry Conference on Arbitration, and a member of the Board of Directors of the American Arbitration Association.

College of Law Captures Regional Championship of the National Mock Trial Competition

UK Law's Mock Trial Team of Jason Reed and Kim Bunton-Douglas prepare for the Sixth Circuit Regional competition.

The College of Law's National Mock Trial Team was crowned the Sixth Circuit Regional Champions which qualified them for the National Trial Championship held March 4-7 in San Antonio, Texas. Third-year law students Kim Bunton-Douglas of Louisville and Jason Reed of Leitchfield, who prepared and argued both sides of a negligence case, won five straight, three-hour trials at the regional competition. Of the 18 judges evaluating the competition, 17 judges cited Bunton-Douglas and Reed as presenting the superior case. The regional competition included 14 teams from the Federal Court's Sixth Circuit, which includes Kentucky, Tennessee, Michigan and Ohio.

This is the first time a UK team has won at the regional level. Because both the first- and second-place teams from each region of the country go to the national competitions, there were 22 teams at San Antonio. Although the law school did not win the national competition, the team made an excellent showing. Among those competing were Baylor University, Georgetown University, and Temple University. The team was coached by Assistant Professor Allison Connelly and the competition was sponsored by the American College of Trial Lawyers and the Texas Young Lawyers Association.

The championship evidences a thriving mock trial program and the students promise this is just the first of many wins. Indeed, the ATLA team coached by Assistant Professor Darlene Goring also had a successful competition.

Bunton-Douglas and Reed acknowledge their success was due in large measure to team members Fitz Johnson and Hunt Rounsavall who were their "stiffest competition." Because of Bunton-Douglas' and Reed's outstanding performance, they were awarded the first English, Lucas Priest & Owsley/James H. Lucas Advocacy Awards.

Busy Year for Student Bar Association

Dana Lawrence and Chip Hamm, two of the SBA's officers for 1997-98.

In addition to the traditional student social activities such as the Barrister's Ball, the Race Judicata, and the Cardozo Open Golf Scramble, UK law students involved themselves in many civic and social events under the leadership of 1997-98 Student Bar Association President, Chip Hamm. The SBA remained active in many service projects—coordinating a blood drive, donating over 150 cans to God's Pantry Thanksgiving food drive, organizing the campus wide Volunteer Income Tax Assistance program for UK students, and donating over 100 gifts to the Salvation Army for the Angel Tree program to support disadvantaged children. In the spring, the SBA invited political candidates for the 6th District Congressional race to speak during Noon Forums, participated as the co-sponsor of a high school debate tournament at Lafayette High School, and hosted students from Bryan Station High School to show them "A Day in the Life of a UK Law Student." Finally, the SBA put together the biggest Libel Show ever, helping to raise $3300 for the Student Public Interest Law Foundation. The SBA is looking to become more involved with the Young Alumni Association. Last year's happy hours were very successful. Please look for details of upcoming events.

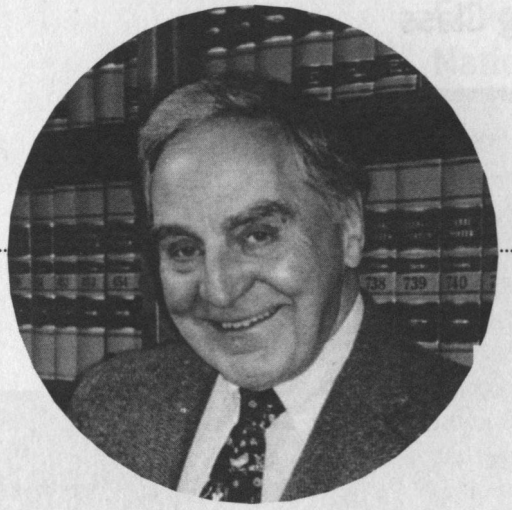
A Busy Year for the Black Law Students Association

This has been a busy year for the Black Law Students Association (BLSA). They awarded the 1998 Civil Rights Fellowship to Bridget Cohee and raised over $1,500.00 for their organization. Several members competed at the TAB, ATLA Moot Court Competitions and the Frederick Douglass Moot Court Competition. BLSA also sponsored a Homecoming Happy Hour and co-sponsored the Annual Spring Banquet with the Women's Law Caucus.



Joe Lee

Judge Lee has received multiple honors and recognitions for his judicial service, particularly for the contributions he has made in bankruptcy law.

Joe Lee was born in Bell County, Kentucky on June 24, 1925. He graduated from Bell County High School in Pikeville, Kentucky, in 1943. From 1943 until 1949, he served in the United States Air Force. He served in the Eight Air Force in England during World War II. Upon military discharge with the rank of Captain, Lee returned to Kentucky and moved to Lexington. He graduated from the University of Kentucky in 1952 with a degree in Journalism. During his time as an undergraduate student at the University of Kentucky, Lee served as Summer Editor of the Kentucky Kernel.

Lee received his law degree from the University of Kentucky College of Law in 1955. After graduation, he served as a law clerk to Judge James B. Milliken, Chief Justice of the Kentucky Court of Appeals. He then served as a law clerk to United States District Judge Hiram Church Ford, and then as counsel to a Congressional Subcommittee in the United States House of Representatives. On September 1, 1961, Lee was appointed to, and began his tenure as, a United States Bankruptcy Judge for the Eastern District of Kentucky.

In 1972, Judge Lee began serving as an Adjunct Professor at the University of Kentucky College of Law teaching one semester each year a course entitled, "Creditors' Remedies and Debtors' Protection." He continued to serve in this position until 1992. In October 1973, Lee moderated and selected the presenters for the initial University of Kentucky College of Law Continuing Legal Education program. This program was a forum on the new Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure which took effect that year. Since then he has continued to participate in the selection of the faculty and the program of the biennial bankruptcy law seminars at the Law School. Lee was honored as the recipient of the ALI-ABA Harrison Tweed Special Merit Award for long term efforts in continuing legal education at the August 9, 1992, American Bar Association Meeting.

Lee has received multiple honors and recognitions for his judicial service, particularly for the contributions he has made in bankruptcy law. He has authored more than 40 publications, including Bankruptcy Practice Manual in 1995. He served as Editor-in-Chief of The American Bankruptcy Law Journal from 1982 until 1990. He was elected to membership in the National Bankruptcy Conference in 1973, and was Chairman of the Committee on Individual Debtors from 1982 through 1997.

Lee was presented the Herbert M. Bierce Distinguished Judicial Service Award by the National Conference of Bankruptcy Judges in October 1983. He was presented the Henry T. Duncan Memorial Award for distinguished judicial service by the Fayette County Bar Association in 1986. He was the recipient of the 1991 Kentucky Bar Association Outstanding Judge Award. He has also been selected as a fellow of the American Bar Foundation and of the American College of Bankruptcy.

Judge Lee is married to Carole Lee and has four daughters: Caroline Clay, Caitlin Decatur, Annabel Deramo, and Janet Roccanova.

Edward Johnstone

Edward Huggins Johnstone was born on April 26, 1922 in Sao Paulo, Brazil, to William Clarkson Johnstone and Katherine Huggins Johnstone. His father, a graduate of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture in 1916, was then an agricultural adviser to the Brazilian government. When his father, a native of South Carolina, accepted an assignment at Paducah, Kentucky, in 1922 to become McCracken County's first University of Kentucky Extension Agent, he and his family returned to the United States. The family later moved to Lexington, Kentucky.

Johnstone attended secondary schools in McCracken and Fayette Counties and is a graduate of Lafayette High School, Class of 1940. He went on to attend the University of Kentucky. His attendance at UK was interrupted by military service in the United States Army, Ninth Infantry Division, from which he was released at the rank of Sergeant in 1945 after service in World War II. Johnstone was awarded the Bronze Star for Heroism in Ground Combat and the Silver Star for Gallantry during his military service.

Johnstone returned to Lexington after military discharge and became a graduate of the University of Kentucky and the University of Kentucky College of Law in 1949. His legal career prior to judicial appointment included both private practice and public service. From 1949 until 1976, Johnstone was the sole practitioner and then partner in the law firm of Johnstone, Eldred & Paxton in Princeton, Kentucky. He also served as counsel to several municipalities: City Attorney to Princeton, Kentucky, from 1952 through 1954, City Judge to Princeton from 1954 through 1969, City Attorney to Kuttawa, Kentucky, from 1954 through 1976, and City Attorney to Fredonia, Kentucky, from 1954 through 1976. He was also appointed to serve on the Citizens Advisory Committee to the Commonwealth of Kentucky, Department of Corrections; Chairman of the Governor's Advisory Committee for the Kentucky State Penitentiary from 1963 through 1967.

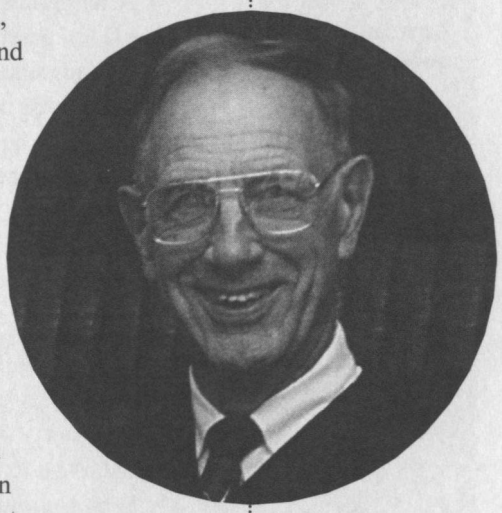
Johnstone has been significantly involved in higher education in Kentucky. He has served on the Advisory Board of Hopkinsville Community College, served as an adjunct instructor in legal area studies for Western Kentucky University, a member of the Board of Visitors for the Salmon P. Chase College of Law at Northern Kentucky University, and a member of the Visiting Committee for the University of Kentucky College of Law.

Judge Johnstone's previous honors have included receiving the 1989 Outstanding Judge Award from the Kentucky Bar Association and the 1993 Distinguished Service Award from the Louisville Bar Association.

Prior to federal appointment, Johnstone was appointed and then, in the regular election held in 1976, elected Circuit Judge of the 56th Judicial District of the Commonwealth of Kentucky. By appointment of the Chief Justice of the Kentucky Court of Appeals, he also served as special Circuit Judge on numerous occasions in various counties.

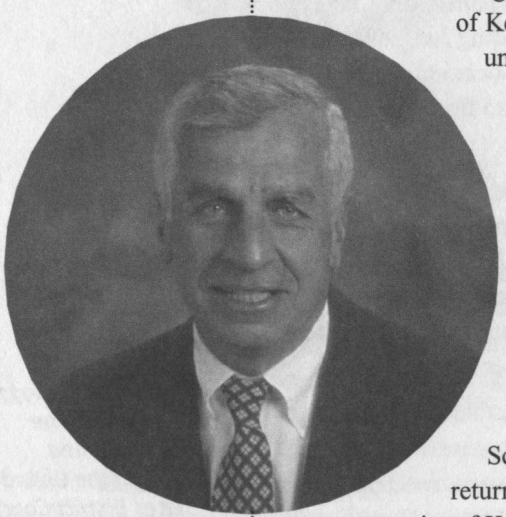
On October 11, 1977, Johnstone was appointed Judge of the United States District Court for the Western District of Kentucky by President Carter. He entered duty on October 13, 1977. He served as Chief Judge from 1985 through 1990. On October 22, 1993, he took senior status, and as a Senior Judge continues to preside over a reduced docket in the Western District of Kentucky and intercircuit assignments at various locations throughout the country.

Judge Johnstone is married to Katherine Elizabeth Guion Johnstone and has four children: Anne Elizabeth Johnstone Dill, William Guion Johnstone, Mary Pepper Johnstone English, and Edward Fraser Johnstone.



On October 11, 1977, Judge Johnstone was appointed Judge of the United States District Court for the Western District of Kentucky by President Carter.

Peter Perlman



In 1985, Perlman was the first Kentuckian elected to serve as President of the Association of Trial Lawyers of America.

Peter Perlman was born in Prague, Czechoslovakia. He attended Dixie Heights High School, where he was active in sports and student government. He went on to seek higher education at the University of Kentucky. During his time as an undergraduate student, he was elected Student Body President, as well as to several honorary fraternities, including Lances, Lamp & Cross, and Omicron Delta Kappa.

After graduation from the University of Kentucky in 1959, Perlman received a Southern Regional Scholarship to attend Duke University Law School. After one year at Duke, he returned to graduate from the University of Kentucky College of Law in 1962, where in his senior year he was chosen to receive the Breckinridge Award.

After graduation from law school, Perlman began his law practice in Lexington in 1962. In 1963 he was appointed Assistant Commonwealth Attorney and served in that position for five years. During that time, he handled numerous high-profile cases and developed a great deal of trial experience. In 1968, Perlman returned to his law practice and has since devoted himself to the representation of severely injured persons and the families of wrongful death victims.

In 1985, Perlman was the first Kentuckian elected to serve as President of the Association of Trial Lawyers of America. During that year, the association had its highest membership of 70,000 members. He initiated many programs to benefit consumers and to involve new lawyers and law students as well. Also in 1985, he was appointed to the Inner Circle of Advocates, a group limited to 100 members and lawyers who have received numerous multimillion dollar verdicts.

In 1989, Perlman served as President of the Civil Justice Foundation, He was appointed to the Board of Directors for the International Academy of Trial Lawyers in 1994, which is a group limited to 500 attorneys worldwide. In 1997, Perlman was appointed to the Board of Trustees for the National Judicial College, which is a group that teaches trial judges from all portions of the United States. Perlman is the only trial lawyer who has ever been elected a trustee of this group.

Perlman's experiences also include serving as President of the Kentucky Academy of Trial Attorneys from 1975-1976. Since 1993, KATA has presented the outstanding trial lawyer in the state with an award entitled "The Peter Perlman Outstanding Trial Lawyer Award." He is a fellow of the American Bar Association and a Charter Life Fellow of the Kentucky Bar Foundation. Perlman's academic positions include serving as an Adjunct Professor at the University of Kentucky College of Law, teaching litigation skills.

Perlman's civic activities have included serving on the Board of the Lexington Rotary Club and as a Rotary Club Paul Harris Fellow. He has served as a past President of Junior Achievement. He has also served as President of the Lexington Jaycees and Vice-President of the Kentucky Jaycees. He has been a member of the United Way of the Bluegrass and served as a Big Brother.

Mr. Perlman resides in Lexington, Kentucky, with his wife, Lana Dae. The Perlmans have three daughters: Pamela, Patrice, and Penne.

UK College of Law Alumni Hall of Fame Criteria and Nomination Form

Nominations are now being accepted for the UK College of Law's Alumni Hall of Fame. This program will honor up to three alumni annually, and inductions will take place at the College's awards banquet during the KBA convention in June. All nominations will be carefully considered by the board of directors of the Law Alumni Association. Please consider the following criteria when nominating an alumnus or alumna.

A. Candidates must have earned a law degree from the University of Kentucky not less than 10 years prior to consideration. Candidates may not be active board members of the Law Alumni Association, and cannot at the time of nomination or selection be the holder of an elected partisan political office.

B. To be selected for the Hall of Fame, a candidate must meet the following criteria:

*Candidate must have reached and remained at the pinnacle of his or her field for a period of time sufficient to demonstrate perseverance and maturation and /or must have affected a profound positive influence on the College of Law in the years since his or her graduation.

*Professional success and significant contributions must be recognized by his or her peers as having reached and remained at the pinnacle of his or her field and / or having a profound positive influence on the College of Law.

*Professional success and significant contributions to a specialty are not achievement enough to warrant nomination to the Alumni Hall of Fame.

C. The honor of Hall of Fame selection is not given so much in recognition of an office or position held, but rather for the actual merit of the individual's work in his or her chosen field of endeavor and professional leadership. Candidates must have exhibited a high degree of character and integrity.

D. Evidence for meeting the above criteria can come from detailed information about the candidate's credentials, achievements, the impact and implications of those accomplishments, public awards and honors, and outside sources such as published articles and previously aired video or audio tapes. The selection committee considers all information included with nominations in making their decisions.

E. All candidates, living and deceased, will be considered regardless of race, gender or religion.

1999 College of Law Alumni Hall of Fame Call for Nominations

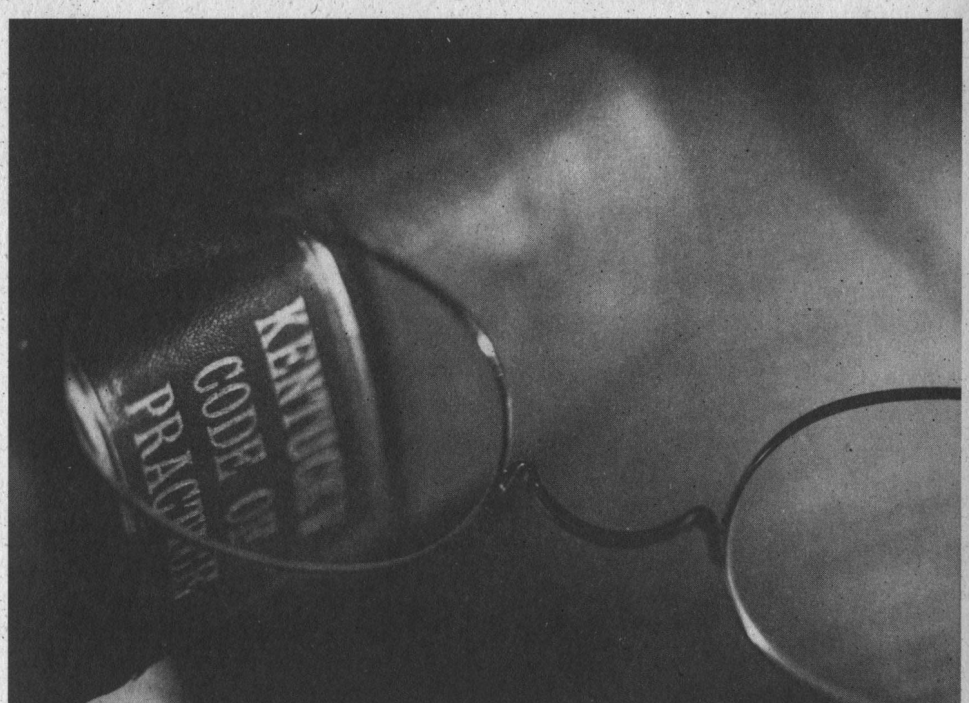
Ashland Initiative 2000

The University of Kentucky College of Law depends to a great extent on its community and corporate support to provide the margin of excellence needed to enrich and enhance our academic programs. In 1995, the College of Law teamed up with Ashland Incorporated, one of Kentucky's best corporate citizens and a long-time supporter of higher education. Together they developed a plan to provide substantial support for both faculty development and student financial aid. In December of that year, the Initiative 2000 campaign was created, thanks in most part to the vision and generosity of Ashland Incorporated.

The Initiative 2000 campaign is a matching gift challenge created to endow funds totaling approximately $1.5 million. In this matching gift challenge, Ashland Incorporated agreed to provide $1 for every $2 raised in support of the project. The College of Law's goal for this campaign was to raise $400,000 over a four-year period in order to receive the full match of $200,000 from Ashland Incorporated by the year 2000. The College of Law is pleased to announce that the private fund-raising portion of the Initiative 2000 campaign, in which the College raised over $400,000 from generous alumni and friends, has been completed one and a half years ahead of schedule.

Of the completed funds, $1 million of this money will be used to provide support for faculty development through creating the College of Law's first Chair of Excellence. This will provide faculty support for a nationally recognized legal scholar. The remainder of the endowed $1.5 million will be used to provide student support in the form of three scholarships. Each scholarship recipient will receive tuition and a living stipend for the full three years of law school. The first Ashland Law Scholar was awarded last year to James Rhorer. The second Ashland Law Scholar was awarded this year to Rodney Chrisman.



New Scholarship Programs

Ben Combs Labor and Employment Law Scholarship:
The Ben Combs Labor and Employment Law Scholarship was created in honor of the late Ben Combs by his wife and children. Mr. Combs, class of 1948, was an Administrative Judge by profession. He had a sincere interest in labor and employment law, but was not able to re-enter school to pursue this interest because of his multiple responsibilities. Mr. Combs passed away in July 1996. This scholarship was created to be awarded annually to a student who excels in the area of labor and employment law. The inaugural recipient of the Ben Combs Labor and Employment Law Scholarship is Angela Mullins. Ms. Mullins is a third-year student from Whitesburg and a graduate from Eastern Kentucky University.

Marie and Bill Cull Scholarships:
The Marie and Bill Cull Scholarships were created by Frankfort alumnus Bill Cull, class of 1977, and alumna Marie Alagia Cull, class of 1979. The first recipient of the Marie and Bill Cull Scholarship is an incoming student, Ms. Emily Riggs. Ms. Riggs is of Shelbyville, Kentucky and a graduate of Miami University of Ohio. The second recipient of the Marie and Bill Cull Scholarship is Mr. Jason Muncy. Mr. Muncy is of Louisville, Kentucky, and is a graduate of Centre College. He did outstanding work during his first year.

James L. King Memorial Scholarship:
James L. King, Circuit Judge from the 39th District, passed away in 1995. Throughout his career, he was known as a fair and honest judge who had a burning desire to see quality education offered to the young people of his area. His family and friends have established the James L. King Memorial Scholarship Fund as a tribute to him. The scholarship will be awarded annually to a student from Breathitt, Wolfe and Powell Counties. The first recipient is Ms. Melissa Howard, a first-year student from Jackson who is a graduate of Eastern Kentucky University.

The English, Lucas, Priest & Owsley/ James H. Lucas Trial Advocacy Awards:
The English, Lucas, Priest & Owsley/ James H. Lucas Trial Advocacy Awards were created by the Bowling Green law firm English, Lucas, Priest & Owsley in honor of Jim Lucas, class of 1959, who retired from the law firm in January of this year. The awards are designed to reward those students who contribute to the College of Law by participating on the mock trial team. The inaugural recipients of these awards are Kimberly Bunton-Douglas, a UK graduate from Louisville, and Jason Reed, a Centre College graduate from Leitchfield. As a team they won the sixth circuit regional title of the national mock trial competition by going undefeated in five trials, and went on to do very well at the national competition in San Antonio, Texas. Through this generous new scholarship program, Ms. Bunton-Douglas and Mr. Reed will have a part of their law school debt forgiven.

The Ogden, Newell and Welch Professional Responsibility Scholarship:
The Louisville Law firm Ogden, Newell and Welch created a new scholarship this year, the Ogden, Newell and Welch Professional Responsibility Scholarship, to recognize a third-year student who has demonstrated outstanding achievement and exhibits honesty, trustworthiness, and a strong commitment to maintaining the integrity of the profession of law. The inaugural recipient is Ms. Kelly Kaiser of Louisville. Ms. Kaiser is a UK graduate who last year received the Vincent E. Harding Public Service Award.

The Schwemm Scholarship:
The Schwemm Scholarship was created by Robert Schwemm in honor of his parents to recognize an outstanding student at the UK College of Law who has evidenced need for financial assistance, but who did not receive scholarship assistance from the College as an incoming student. The inaugural recipient of the Schwemm Scholarship is Mr. David Sullivan, of Frankfort. Mr. Sullivan is a graduate of Grove City College and a second-year student.

The Cawood Smith Memorial Scholarship:
The Cawood Smith Memorial Scholarship has been created by Helen Smith in honor of her husband, the late Cawood Smith. Throughout his life, Mr. Smith was dedicated to the UK College of Law and to his home of Eastern Kentucky. He often supported educational programs that enabled the people of Eastern Kentucky to better afford higher education. The Cawood Smith Memorial Scholarship will be awarded annually to an outstanding student from Eastern Kentucky. The inaugural recipient of this scholarship is Ms. Valerie Grubbs of Cumberland, a second-year student who also attended UK as an undergraduate.

Stites & Harbison Professorship

With offices in Louisville, Lexington, and Frankfort, Kentucky and Jeffersonville, Indiana, the law firm of Stites & Harbison ranks as the number one employer of UK Law graduates. Of its nearly 130 lawyers, 62 are UK College of Law graduates—more than any other employer in the nation!

With this distinction, it should come as no surprise that Stites & Harbison is the newest law firm to provide an endowed Professorship at the law school. Joining individuals such as Larry Leatherman '53 and Richard Spears '61 and law firms such as Wyatt, Tarrant & Combs and Brown, Todd & Heyburn, the law firm started the endowment to establish the Stites & Harbison Professorship of Law in December of 1998.

While all of the other endowed professorships at the law school today are established to provide salary supplements to a senior professor at the law school, Stites & Harbison has elected to use the early earnings of the Fund to provide much needed salary supplements and research assistance to a junior faculty member until the academic year of 2001 when the Professorship will be fully funded. At that time, the Stites & Harbison Professorship will be awarded on an annual basis to a senior member of the UK Law faculty.

The College of Law is pleased to announce the appointment of Linda B. Talbott as the Director of Development. She replaces Mary Serini Buckles who left in September. Prior to joining the College, Ms. Talbott was the Director of Development at the UK College of Architecture. She attended Reading University, Reading, England and received her B.A. degree from Davidson College and her M.S. degree from the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

LAFFERTY SOCIETY

The Lafferty Society is the College of Law's recognition group and an important part of UK's Fellows program. Membership in the Lafferty Society is gained when gifts and pledges of at least $10,000 for individuals and $50,000 for organizations are designated for the use of the College. Bequests, insurance policies and trust agreements that benefit the College of Law in an amount of no less than $50,000 also qualify individuals for membership.

If you are already a UK Fellow, membership in the College of Law's Lafferty Society occurs when an additional commitment of at least $5,000 is given for the use of the College. For more information, please contact Linda B. Talbott at 606/257-3208.

Professorships Awarded for 1998-99 Academic Year

Top quality faculty are at the heart of the educational process. Our academic standards are established by our faculty, and through their research, the knowledge base of the legal profession has expanded and improved. Professorships are vital to the UK College of Law because they provide the resources that enable the College's salaries to be more competitive with those of our benchmark institutions.

Professorships enable the College to recruit and retain an outstanding faculty which directly impacts the quality of education that we provide to our students. As we strive to be a distinguished state law school, professorships remain a priority in our fundraising endeavors.

We thank the individuals, firms, foundations and companies listed below that have made these professorships possible, and we congratulate our faculty for a job well done.

Dear Alumni and Friends:

Greetings from your Alumni Association. In my last letter to you in April, I advised that the University of Kentucky College of Law would once again be handling all aspects of the Law School's Alumni Association due to the fact our membership had decreased in the years that we belonged to the general University of Kentucky Alumni Association. I am pleased to report to you that as of the date of this letter, our enrollment has doubled. While I certainly do not know the reason for the decline in our membership for the last few years, I think these figures do confirm one feeling that I have always had—Loyalty to the UK College of Law by its alumni and friends is strong.

Even though our numbers have doubled, we will continue to strive to enroll each and every one of our approximately 5,300 alumni. I am still confident that the only reason any of our alumni have not sent their $25 check is due to the fact they have simply overlooked it. If you are one of those that has overlooked this matter, please take two minutes to complete the form on the next page and forward it, along with a check, so you will be a member of the Alumni Association.

I hope you attended our Hall of Fame banquet at the KBA Convention, which once again showed what a quality school and group of alumni we have. If not, please make a special effort to attend this event next June. I hope to see you all at one of our alumni events this year. Your support is appreciated!

Sincerely,

Thomas N. Kerrick '80

Employment Survey Results

The Career Services Office of the University of Kentucky College of Law collects employment and salary information from its law school graduates on an annual basis. This information is used to assist current students and alumni with job searches and hiring decisions.

Favorable National Rankings The information received is also reported to the National Association for Law Placement and U.S. News & World Report. The rankings assigned to the University of Kentucky College of Law by U.S. News and World Report based on the Class of 1997 data were very favorable. Of the 178 private and public accredited law schools which were surveyed, UK was assigned a Placement Success Rank of 33.

Salary Survey The salary information gathered by the law school is used to compile the annual Salary Survey for recent graduates. Starting salary information is broken down by geographic area, size of firm, and type of employer. Employment percentages continue to be outstanding.

1973-1998

UK/CLE Celebrates a Quarter Century

Since its founding in 1908, the University of Kentucky College of Law has conducted a variety of activities designed to maintain contacts with the members of the practicing bar. One of, if not the most, significant events for the law school in this regard occurred 25 years ago. In early 1973, Kentucky had no staffed continuing legal education (CLE) organization. At the request of the Kentucky Bar Association and with the strong support of Dean George W. Hardy, III, the law school hired a lawyer director and launched its Office of Continuing Legal Education.

While the University of Kentucky was one of the early providers of continuing legal education among law schools and the first to provide continuing legal education in the Commonwealth of Kentucky, a look at the origins of CLE in the United States provides some perspective on the early Kentucky efforts. The concept of continuing legal education began with a series of lectures conducted by the Association of the Bar of the City of New York in the early 1900's, prior to the establishment of UK's law school. During the mid-1930's several law schools across the nation began to conduct CLE programs. In 1936 Northwestern University School of Law in Chicago began its Annual Short Course for Prosecuting Attorneys, an annual CLE course which continues to the present.

The first Director of UK's Office of Continuing Legal Education was John King Hickey. John's dedication to a strong organization was critical to the success of the program and his efforts were very well received by the members of the bar. The early years of this venture were also given stability because the College of Law was willing to provide a subsidy from its operations budget. As a result, a high quality product was able to be presented from the very first program offered. The new office presented its first full-day seminar on "New Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure" in October of 1973 with the Honorable Joe Lee, U.S. Bankruptcy Court Judge for the Eastern District of Kentucky, as Planning Chair. Judge Lee continues as chair of UK/CLE's biennial Bankruptcy Institute to the present with another program scheduled for December 1999. From 1973 to 1983, the College of Law remained one of the few providers of CLE to attorneys across Kentucky. The programming included basic and advanced courses, as well as keeping Kentucky attorneys apprised of new developments through the printing of verbatim course transcripts and audio tapes of all programs.

The concept of continuing legal education began with a series of lectures conducted by the Association of the Bar of the City of New York in the early 1900's, prior to the establishment of UK's law school.

In the decade after the University of Kentucky College of Law initiated CLE in Kentucky, several other providers also began post bar admission instruction. By the mid-1980's, the Kentucky Bar Association, the University of Louisville School of Law, Salmon Chase College of Law at Northern Kentucky University, and numerous other organizations had actively entered the CLE market. This was in part due to the fact that Kentucky joined the ranks of states requiring their licensed attorneys to attend a minimum number of hours of CLE. In 1984 the state became the 14th state to adopt mandatory continuing legal education (MCLE). Unlike other states, in Kentucky the advent of mandatory continuing legal education was accompanied by a Supreme Court Rule which mandated the state bar association to provide CLE free of charge to all members of the Kentucky bar. This rule continues with the Kentucky Bar Association and its Continuing Legal Education Commission offering a free annual program providing the full number of required MCLE credits in each of Kentucky's seven judicial districts. The Kentucky Bar Association's "District Bar Programs" then, as now, focus on an annual update and offer a wide spectrum of convenient instruction for the bar in a single course. This has guided the University of Kentucky College of Law to concentrate instructional objectives toward more comprehensive coverage in selected areas of practice.

In early 1986 John Hickey retired. Later that same year, Todd Eberle became Associate Dean and Director of Continuing Legal Education. Todd continues in that position to the present. In 1987 UK/CLE, as it then became known, entered the legal publications market and hired an additional attorney as Assistant Director. The position has been held by three attorneys, first Jean Moisan Grout, later David Miller, and since 1994 by Kevin Bucknam. In the ten year period 1987-1997, the UK/CLE publications' library grew rapidly. To date it includes over forty titles. The office continues to serve as the principal provider of law practice publications in Kentucky, and stands out as one of the only law school based comprehensive legal publication programs in the United States. Kevin Bucknam, working with law faculty, practicing attorneys, and members of the judiciary, continues to expand the number and variety of titles offered. Susan Saunier, Business Manager; Cynthia Johnson, Publications Composition/Marketing Manager; and Melinda Rawlings, part-time Student Associate round out the office's current staff.

Despite increased competition, the program enjoys strong support across the state and in the midsouth/midwest region. The broad base of patrons allows UK/CLE to continue its operations with essentially the same level of staffing as in 1973. While its market share fluctuated to some extent from 1985 to 1995, it has maintained a consistent percentage share for instructional programs. During the same period, it became increasingly prominent in the publications field.

While UK/CLE was Kentucky's first resource for continuing legal education, the office initiated many other "firsts" for CLE. Throughout its history the office maintained a leadership role as an innovator in the area of post bar admission training for lawyers. Other "firsts" have included Kentucky's first intensive skills training course (a 10 day program in trial advocacy); the nation's first annual conference dedicated to mineral law; the nation's first (and to this day the only) annual conference dedicated to equine law; Kentucky's first, and only, complete library of handbooks and law practice publications for the practicing bar; Kentucky's first offering of live satellite broadcasting to multiple statewide locations; the first use of live closed circuit "distance learning" programs for continuing legal education in Kentucky; the first offering of individually scheduled video CLE programs in Kentucky; and the first employment of law students to work in the development and provision of continuing legal education products in Kentucky.

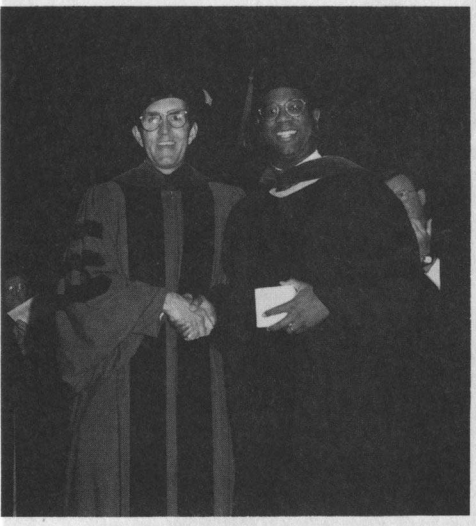
The office has been consistently dedicated to providing the highest quality continuing legal education for the members of the legal profession.

Many comparisons can be made which demonstrate the growth of the office and the expansion of its services over the years. In 1985 the program became self supporting. It continues to be self supporting to the present day. In 1977 gross annual revenues totaled $61,400. Twenty years later, in 1997, gross annual revenues exceeded $500,000. In 1986-87 the average cost of producing a seminar was $9,950. Eleven years later, in 1997-98, the average cost of producing a seminar was $22,770. In 1986 sales of publications represented 5.2% of total revenue. Ten years later, in 1996, sales of publications comprised 43.9% of revenue. In 1986 the total number of publication volumes sold stood at 485. Ten years later, in 1996, the annual number of publication volumes sold had increased to 2,875.

UK/CLE has been characterized by significant change over time. However, one factor has remained unchanged during its twenty-five year history. The office has been consistently dedicated to providing the highest quality continuing legal education for the members of the legal profession. The next quarter century will see the office continuing to pursue its goal of improving the competence and the professionalism of all persons who make up the legal community; lawyers, judges, students, and academics. Sincere appreciation is extended to all of those persons who have so generously given of their time to lecture for and attend UK/CLE programs, as well as those who write for and purchase UK/CLE publications. The College of Law hopes the rewards we have enjoyed are shared by all who have been associated with our CLE program over the past 25 years. It is truly an enjoyable silver anniversary for all who have come together to make UK/CLE a strong resource for the legal profession.

Class of 1998 Recognized with Ceremony



Former Dean David Shipley presents the Faculty Cup to T. Fitz Johnson.

The College of Law held its 89th Commencement Ceremony, or "Law Recognition Ceremony," in the Concert Hall of the UK Singletary Center for the Arts on the afternoon of Friday, May 8, 1998.

After the processional across the stage, Dean David Shipley congratulated not only the graduates but their parents, spouses, children, grandparents and in-laws in the audience, who had supported them during the graduates' three years of law school. This was Dean Shipley's final graduation ceremony, and he spoke briefly about how much he had enjoyed being a part of the College of Law.

By tradition, the ceremony included three speakers: the student ranked first in the class, a faculty member selected by vote of the graduating class, and the current President of the Kentucky Bar Association speaking on behalf of the bar.

Simone Schonenberger spoke on behalf of the 1998 graduating class. She is a graduate of Washington & Lee University and lives in Fort Campbell, Kentucky, where her husband is stationed. Ms. Schonenberger joined the Army Judge Advocate General Corps after graduation. To extend the greetings of the faculty, the Class of 1998 elected Professor and former Dean Rutheford B. Campbell, Jr. Robert L. Elliott '74, 1998 President of the Kentucky Bar Association, addressed the graduates on behalf of the bar. He is a name partner in the Lexington law firm of Savage, Garmer and Elliott.

Each year the UK College of Law faculty presents its highest tribute to a graduating student in the form of an engraved sterling silver julep cup. The Faculty Cup is presented to that student whose endeavors, both in and out of the classroom, have made the greatest contribution to the law school, making it a more interesting place in which to teach and a more pleasant place for faculty and students alike. The recipient of the Faculty Cup for 1998 is T. Fitz Johnson. Fitz Johnson is a graduate of The Citadel and served in the Army before entering law school. He was elected President of the Student Bar Association for the 1996-97 academic year, and used that office to expand the opportunities for community service by the College's students and student organizations. Last year he was the first student recipient of the Henry R. Heyburn Public Service Award. Mr. Johnson and his family have settled in Lexington, where he is now associated with Landrum & Shouse.

This was Dean Shipley's final graduation ceremony, and he spoke briefly about how much he had enjoyed being a part of the College of Law.

Following these special presentations, Dean Shipley and Professor Louise Graham, Associate Dean for Academic Affairs, presented the degree certificates to the graduates as their names were called. To close the ceremony, the faculty and new law graduates formed a recessional, ending outside for formal and informal photographs of the occasion. One of those photographs was used for the cover of the College's new admissions Bulletin. A reception for graduates and their families took place after the ceremony at Spindletop Hall.

After the speakers Dean Shipley announced those members of the graduating class then eligible for the prestigious Order of the Coif based upon their current GPAs. The following students, who at the end of the fall 1997 semester were in or close to the top 10% of their class, stood to applause:

Rick G. Alsip of Corbin
Jennifer A. Bailey of Louisville
Melissa J. Bowman of Wilmore
James L. Carter, Jr. of China Grove, NC
Boyd T. Cloern of Madisonville
William G. Fowler, II of Lexington
Charles M. Grayson, III of Crescent Springs

1998 Faculty Notes

Richard C. Ausness, Ashland Oil Professor of Law, spoke at a symposium on Tobacco Litigation which was held at the Southwestern University School of Law in Los Angeles in March, 1998. This resulted in a publication, "Paying for the Health Costs of Smoking: Loss Shifting and Loss Bearing," which recently came out in 27 Southwestern University Law Review 537-575 (1998). Another article, "Replacing Strict Liability with a Contract-Based Products Liability Regime," has been accepted for publication by the Temple Law Review and appeared in that journal in Fall 1998.

Carolyn S. Bratt, W.L. Matthews, Jr. Professor of Law was named Vice Chair of the American Bar Association's Section on Individual Rights and Responsibilities' Committee on the Rights of Gays and Lesbians. During the most recent session of the Kentucky General Assembly, Professor Bratt gave invited testimony on the constitutionality of a bill prohibiting same-sex marriages. The UK/CLE will publish her monograph entitled "Kentucky Intestacy Law." Professor Bratt gave the "Employment Discrimination Law Update: 1996 to 1998" at the UK/CLE's 6th Biennial Employment Law Institute. She spoke to the Women Lawyers Section of the Fayette County Bar Association on "Recent Developments in the Law of Harassment." Professor Bratt also developed a training program for the Kentucky Education Professional Standards Board on "Educational Sexual Misconduct."

Rutheford B. Campbell, Jr., Willburt D. Ham Professor of Law, was a participant in a symposium, the National Securities Markets Improvements Act - One Year Later, presented at the Business Law Section of the 1997 annual Meeting of the American Bar Association. He published the article, "The Impact of NSMIA on Small Issuers," in 53 The Business Lawyer 575 (1998). He also served as a participant on the following: the University of Kentucky Continuing Legal Education, 9th Biennial Midwest/Midsouth Securities Law Conference and his topic was "The National Securities Markets Improvement Act of 1996"; and the Kentucky Securities Law Advisory Committee for the Kentucky Department of Financial Institutions. This committee was involved in drafting legislative and regulatory changes to Kentucky's Blue Sky Laws, which changes were enacted by the 1998 Legislature.

Herb Cihak, Professor of Law, Director of the Law Library, Director of Legal Research and Writing, and Chief Information Officer for the College of Law made a July 1997 presentation at the American Association of Law Libraries Annual Meeting in Baltimore entitled, "Upside Down and Inside Out: Organizational Change in Law Libraries." He spoke at the Southeastern Association of Law Libraries Annual Meeting in New Orleans in March 1998, on the topic "Medical and Legal Libraries: Organizational Partnering and Reconstruction." His April 1998 presentation to the Joint Spring Conference of the Kentucky Library Association and Special Library Association Kentucky Chapter, at Lake Cumberland Falls, was titled, "Leadership, Liberation and Learning: Principles of Reconstruction."

Allison Connelly, Director of the Elder Law Clinic, has successfully navigated the Clinic through its first year of operation as 16 students represented approximately 70 low income elderly individuals on a variety of civil matters. Professor Connelly is contributing author and editor for Baldwin's Kentucky Practice, Vol.2, "Criminal Practice" which is updated yearly. She also received a Kentucky Bar Foundation grant to rewrite, revise and update the KBA's popular Laws and Programs for Older Kentuckians which is scheduled for completion in 1999. As faculty advisor of the Trial Advocacy Board, Professor Connelly coached the National Mock Trial Team to its first Sixth Circuit Regional Championship in the National Trial Competition sponsored by the American College of Trial Lawyers. She continues her representation of a Kentucky death row inmate and currently represents two indigent inmates pro bono before the Kentucky Court of Appeals. Professor Connelly also made several CLE presentations last May and June on several topics including elder law and U.S. Supreme Court criminal decisions.

Mary J. Davis, Stites & Harbison Professor of Law, published an article entitled "Toward the Proper Role for Mass Tort Class Actions," 77 Oregon Law Review No. 1 (May 1998). In addition, Professor Davis continues to work with the authors of Product Liability and Safety (3d ed. 1996), a law school casebook, and is currently completing the 1998 Case and Statutory Supplement. She also has recently completed an article on summary adjudication methods in United States civil procedure in conjunction with her position as Co-National Reporter for the United States to the 15th International Congress of Comparative Law which was held in Bristol, England in August 1998. The article was published in the American Journal of Comparative Law in Fall 1998. Professor Davis was also asked to contribute a chapter on mass tort litigation for a products liability treatise published by West Publishing in Fall 1998. Professor Davis will be a visiting professor at Wake Forest University School of Law in Spring 1999.

Todd B. Eberle, Associate Dean and Director of Continuing Legal Education, has been re-elected to the Executive Committee of the Association of American Law Schools Section on Continuing Education. During the 33rd Mid-Year Meeting of the Association for Continuing Legal Education in Charleston, South Carolina, he served as chair for a session on, "How To Become (Or Remain) Fresh and Innovative In the Law School CLE Setting: Big Ideas and Small Strategies To Enhance Your Operations." Earlier, his article entitled, " 'Power Point' Often Pointless," appeared in Vol. XVII, No. 4 of the Quarterly Newsletter of the Association for Continuing Legal Education. He sustains his interest in legal services for the poor by membership on the boards of directors of both the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund and Central Kentucky Legal Services. Todd is working on a revision and update to the Kentucky Legal Ethics Opinions and Professional Responsibility Deskbook which is scheduled for publication this year.

WILLIAM H. FORTUNE, Edward T. Breathitt Professor of Law, co-authored a book with Professor Rick Underwood and Professor Ed Imwinkelried (University of California-Davis) entitled Modern Litigation and Professional Responsibility Handbook which was published in 1996. He co-authored the fourth edition of Psychology and the Legal System with the Dean of the UK Graduate School, Professor Mike Nietzel, and Professor Larry Wrightsman (University of Kansas), published in 1997. He also co-authored Kentucky Criminal Law with Professor Robert Lawson, which was published in 1998. He wrote two articles on ethics, one appearing in the Northern Kentucky Law Review and one in Kentucky Law Journal, both published in 1998. He made CLE presentations for the Kentucky Bar Association, UKCLE, the Attorney General and the Louisville Bar Association. He continues his mediation work with the Mediation Center of Kentucky.

EUGENE R. GAETKE, H. Wendell Cherry Professor of Law, was recently appointed to the Professionalism Committee of the American Bar Association's Section of Legal Education

University of Kentucky College of Law On The Go

Last year Professor Mike Healy and his family moved to Kenilworth, England for six months so Professor Healy could participate in the College of Law's faculty exchange program with Coventry University's School of Law. Professor Healy brought his expertise in environmental law to add a comparative focus to Coventry's existing environmental law course offerings. Professor Mary Davis was in Bristol, England for one week this summer to attend a comparative law conference. She also presented a paper at the conference.

England was also the destination for two other faculty members of the College of Law, Professors Underwood and Harding. This summer Professor Underwood attended a conference in London. He made a presentation on professional ethics and perjury. Professor Harding, who was on sabbatical for the spring semester, spent three months as a Visiting Fellow at the University of Oxford's Centre for Criminological Research. She also went to Coventry to discuss the faculty exchange program.

Vienna, Austria was Professor Vasek's destination earlier this spring. As the faculty advisor and coach, he accompanied a student team participating for the second year in the Wilhelm Vis International Commercial Law Moot competition.

As you can see, our faculty is increasingly active in the global legal community. These academic ambassadors contribute to the College of Law by obtaining legal information on foreign legal systems which enhances the substance of what they teach. It also enables the University of Kentucky to become better known by other universities throughout the world.

and Admissions to the Bar by Randall T. Shepard, Chief Justice of the Indiana Supreme Court and Committee Chair. The Committee has been working with the ABA's Standing Committee on Professionalism and Lawyer Competence to explore methods by which law schools can "raise the level of professionalism among graduates and within the Bar."

ALVIN L. GOLDMAN, Dorothy Salmon Professor of Law, continues to be a member of the Labor Law Group's Executive Committee, a member of the Editorial Advisory Board of Comparative Labor Law & Policy Journal, Vice Chair of the U.S. Branch of the International Society for Labor Law and Social Security, and a member of the Advisory Board for the International Encyclopedia of Laws. As co-reporter for the U.S., Professor Goldman recently selected, edited and prepared his annual contribution of case commentaries representing significant developments in U.S. labor and employment case law to be published in International Labour Law Reports. He continues to collaborate with Professor Jacques Rojot, Dean of the Business School at the Sorbonne (Paris I), in preparing a book that will combine and revise their respective books on negotiations. In addition, he prepared a book chapter "Industrial Democracy-Slogan or Metaphor?" to be published by Kluwer in 1998 as part of the Liber Amicorum Roger Blanpain and presented a paper "Alternative Judicial and Extrajudicial Solutions for Labor Conflicts" for the International Conference on Employment Relations: Juridical, Social and Economic Aspects, which was sponsored by the Brazilian Labor Ministry in São Paulo, Brazil, last November. Professor Goldman attended the World Congress of the International Society for Labor Law and Social Security in Buenos Aires in October. He also attended the mid-year meeting of the National Academy of Arbitrators in Nashville in October 1997 and the Academy's annual meeting in San Diego in May 1998.

LOUISE GRAHAM, Wendell H. Ford Professor of Law, has published the second edition of Kentucky Domestic Relations which was co-authored with Judge James E. Keller. Her article on Developments in Family Law will be published in Spring, 1999 in 86 Kentucky Law Journal No. 4. She is also on the Executive Committee for the American Bar Association Section on Academic Support and the Cabinet for Families and Children's Justice Task Force.

ROBERTA M. HARDING, Associate Professor of Law, has published several articles on capital punishment. Her article comparing the rights of prisoners in the United States and Europe will be published by the University of Georgia Journal of International and Comparative Law. She is completing another article on capital punishment that examines how to bring about actions challenging the constitutionality of the methods of execution. During the spring of 1998, Professor Harding was on sabbatical and was a Visiting Fellow at the University of Oxford's Centre for Criminological Research. She conducted research on capital punishment's relationship to human sacrifice and the origins of many rites and rituals associated with capital

Dean Search

Following David Shipley's resignation as Dean, Chancellor Zinser appointed a Dean Search and Screening Committee for the College of Law. The Committee, chaired by Professor Healy, includes six law faculty members (Professors Ausness, Campbell, Cihak, Harding, Healy, and Moore), three law alumni members (Judge Jennifer Coffman, Chaz Lavelle, and Ron Walker), one non-law faculty member (Dean Emery Wilson of the Medical School), one law staff member (Alma Mitchell), and one law student member (Susan Dwyer).

The Committee has completed its initial tasks of announcing and publicizing the Dean Search. Announcements have been circulated to every law school and advertisements have been placed in several journals. These announcements have generated a number of applications for the position along with many nominations. Individuals nominated for the deanship have received a written request for an application, along with information about the position.

The Committee has received more than 25 applications for the position and has begun screening these applications. The Committee plans to schedule interviews with selected candidates during the annual meeting of law professors, which will take place in New Orleans in January. Following those interviews, the pool will be narrowed to a group of semi-finalists and ultimately to a group of six or fewer finalists who will interview on campus in February or March of 1999. The Committee anticipates that the College of Law will have completed its strategic plan by that time and the finalists for the Deanship will be able to have substantial discussions with the Chancellor and the President about the University's future commitment to the College of Law.

punishment. During her sabbatical she also made a presentation at Oxford about her comparative prisoners' rights paper, gave two lectures at Coventry's School of Law, and gave a lecture on capital punishment at the University of Paris, Nanterre. In the fall of 1997 she was a Visiting Professor at the Wake Forest School of Law. In the spring of 1999, she will be a Visiting Professor at the University of Georgia School of Law where she will teach courses on Capital Punishment and Remedies. Professor Harding was asked to be a panelist at the American Society of Criminologists' meeting during Fall 1998. She still administers the UK College of Law's faculty exchange program with Coventry University's School of Law and remains active in student recruitment.

MICHAEL P. HEALY, Professor of Law, published an article on Clean Water Act citizen suits, "Still Dirty After Twenty-Five Years: Water Quality Standard Enforcement and the Availability of Citizen Suits," in the Ecology Law Quarterly. He is completing work on an article entitled "The Americanization of the English Law of Statutory Interpretation: The Impact of Pepper v. Hart." Professor Healy worked with Professor Bratt and editors of the Journal of Natural Resources and Environmental Law to organize a major symposium on Brownfields Law and Policy, which was held in Lexington in early April 1998. Professor Healy introduced the Symposium and participated in a panel addressing "Perspectives on Brownfields Redevelopment." The Journal will be publishing a symposium issue. Professor Healy is working on an article to introduce the symposium issue, as well as an article on England's Contaminated Land Act of 1995, to be co-authored with Bob Gingell, a faculty member at Coventry University in England. Professor Healy delivered the Arthur C. McFarlan Distinguished Lecture before the Kentucky Geological Survey on February 26, 1998. His lecture—the tenth in this annual lecture series—was entitled, "Loopholes in the Application of Federal Environmental Protection Statutes and the Risks Posed to Water Quality." Along with Dr. Ronald Fleming of the College of Agriculture, Professor Healy was a coordinator of the graduate school's Environmental Systems Program Seminar for Spring 1998. The seminar addressed questions of science, law, and policy related to global warming and the Kyoto Protocol to the Climate Change Convention. Professor Healy was quoted in an article in the National Law Journal that discussed the Supreme Court's consideration of a case—United States v. CPC International, Inc.—presenting the question of the scope of parent corporation liability under the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation and Liability Act. Finally, Professor Healy's article, "The Preemption of State Hazardous and Solid Waste Regulations: The Dormant Commerce Clause Awakens Once More," was reprinted in the second volume of the Environmental Law Anthology edited by Allison Zabriskie and Thaddeus Bereday.

ROBERT G. LAWSON, Alumni Professor of Law, has jointly authored a book on criminal law with Professor Bill Fortune. It is entitled Kentucky Criminal Law and is intended to provide complete coverage of issues that confront lawyers and judges in the trial of criminal cases in Kentucky courts. He served on Governor Patton's Task Force on Crime during the most recent session of the General Assembly and recently completed service as chairman of a Merit Selection Panel to assist the Sixth Circuit Judicial Council in the selection of a new bankruptcy judge for the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Kentucky. He has delivered lectures on evidence law during the recent school year for the UK Continuing Legal Education Program and the administrative law judges of the Department of Workers Claims.

DOUGLAS C. MICHAEL, Professor of Law, published "The Past and Future of Kentucky's Fraudulent Transfer and Preference Laws" in the Summer 1998 issue of the Kentucky Law Journal, and is currently researching the law of "piercing the veil" of corporations and limited liability companies. Professor Michael continues his work as faculty advisor to the Journal and as volunteer instructor and coordinator with the Student Bar Association of the Volunteer Income Tax Assistance program. He also renewed a program for College of Law students to serve as law clerks in the U.S. Bankruptcy court, in consultation with Bankruptcy Judges Joe Lee and William Howard.

KATHRYN L. MOORE, Associate Professor of Law, published an article, "Privatization of Social Security: Misguided Reform," in the Temple Law Review and her survey of developments in Kentucky tax law is forthcoming in the Kentucky Law Journal. She is currently working on an article analyzing the effects of the social security reform proposals on women, minorities, and lower-income workers. She discussed this work at the annual meeting of the Southeastern Conference of the American Law Schools this summer.

JOHN M. ROGERS, Brown, Todd & Heyburn Professor of Law, is on leave during the 1998-99 academic year as visiting professor at the University of San Diego School of Law, where he is teaching constitutional and international law. In June, Professor Rogers participated in a seminar for senior Ecuadoran military officers in Quito, Ecuador. He gave talks on international law and U.S. China policy. The seminar was organized by UK's Patterson School of Diplomacy, working through the Kentucky National Guard's Partnership with Ecuador. Professor Rogers' latest article is "Intensional Contexts and the Rule that Statutes Should be Interpreted as Consistent with International Law," 73 Notre Dame L. Rev. 637-66 (1998).

PAUL SALAMANCA, Assistant Professor of Law, recently completed work on an article entitled "Constitutional Protection for Conversations Between Therapists and Clients." This past summer, he participated in a panel entitled "The Full and Fair Search for the Truth in the Adversarial System" at the Annual Convention of the Kentucky Bar Association. He also spoke at a meeting of the Lexington Lions' Club last April about "The Special Prosecutor." On October 10, he delivered a paper entitled "Some Realistic Thinking About Secular Effects" at the Annual Meeting of the Central States Law School Association in Akron, Ohio.

ROBERT G. SCHWEMM, Acting Dean and Ashland Oil Professor of Law, was appointed to a three-year term on the Federal Reserve Board's Consumer Advisory Council. The eighth annual supplement to Professor Schwemm's book, Housing Discrimination: Law and Litigation (West Group) was published this fall. During the past year he gave speeches on fair housing and lending discrimination in Washington, Chicago, San Diego and Birmingham. In June 1998, he was moderator-facilitator for the tenth straight year at the annual convention of the National Fair Housing Alliance.

THOMAS J. STIPANOWICH, W.L. Matthews Professor of Law, was recently appointed Director of the International Commission on the Future of Arbitration of the CPR Institute for Dispute Resolution in New York and as a member of the Board of Directors of the American Arbitration Association. As Academic Reporter for the National Consumer ADR Due Process Task Force, he was chief drafter of the Protocol for Mediation and Arbitration of Consumer Disputes, which was published this spring. He continues to serve as Academic Advisor to the National Conference of Commissioners on State Laws Drafting Committee to reform the Uniform Arbitration Act, as a public member of the Securities Industry Conference on Arbitration (SICA) and of the National Arbitration and Mediation Advisory Committee of the National Conference of Securities Dealers (NASD); Chair of the Arbitration Committee of the ABA Section of Dispute Resolution; and a member of the CPR Commission on Ethics and Standards of Dispute Resolution Practice. His article, "The Multi-Door Contract and Other Possibilities" is a lead article in the Ohio State Journal of Dispute Resolution and an article entitled "Reconstructing Construction Law: Reality and Reform in a Transactional System," has been published in the Wisconsin Law Review. Tom was moderator for a panel on Consumer and Employment Arbitration at the Annual Meeting of the Society for Professionals in Dispute Resolution in Orlando, Florida in October 1997; a panel on the future of arbitration at the Winter Meeting of the CPR Institute in New York in January, 1998; and a panel on international arbitration at the ABA Section on Dispute Resolution Conference on International ADR in Washington, D.C. in April, 1998. He gave a Randall-Park Colloquium on Consumer ADR at the College of Law in February, 1998.

RICHARD H. UNDERWOOD, Spears-Gilbert Professor of Law, published an article entitled, "Perjury—The Charges and Defenses!" in the Summer 1998 issue of the Duquesne Law Review and also the 1998-1999 Edition of the Kentucky Evidence Courtroom Manual (Anderson Publishing). He attended the World-Wide Advocacy Conference in London, England at Gray's Inn where he delivered a paper titled "The Professional and the Liar" which will be published in the Spring 1999, Kentucky Law Journal. While in London he was also interviewed by the BBC regarding legal ethics and the criminal defense lawyer.

STEPHEN VASEK, Associate Professor of Law, in January, represented the UK Faculty at the AALS Annual Meeting in San Francisco. In February he presented a paper on Individual Aspects of the 1997 Taxpayer Relief Act at the UK CLE program at the law school. In April he and a student team representing the UK College of Law participated in the Wilem C. Vis International Commercial Arbitration Moot in Vienna. In August he taught (with Michael Reynolds) one day CLE workshops on Ky/Federal Fiduciary Income Tax in Lexington and Louisville. In October he taught (with Michael Reynolds) one day CLE workshops on different types of trusts used in estate planning in Lexington and Louisville.

HAROLD R. WEINBERG, Wyatt, Tarrant & Combs Professor of Law, was presented with a plaque by the Center for Computer-Assisted Legal Instruction (CALI), in appreciation for his computer learning program's innovative contribution to legal education. The program deals with the Uniform Commercial Code. In June, Professor Weinberg spoke at CALI's Conference for Law School Computing concerning authoring computer legal instructional programs.

SARAH N. WELLING, Wendell H. Ford Professor of Law, completed the treatise, Federal Criminal Law and Related Actions: Crimes, RICO, Forfeiture and the False Claims Act, which was published by West in October, 1998. Coauthors are Professors Sara Beale of Duke and Pam Bucy of Alabama. Her article on money laundering with electronic cash, "Cyberlaundering: The Risks, the Responses," was published in the Florida Law Review in the Fall of 1998. It is coauthored by Andy Rickman, '97. As Reporter for the federal Sixth Circuit Criminal Pattern Jury Instruction Committee, Sarah drafted pattern instructions on firearms crimes and money laundering, and chaired a meeting of the committee in Cincinnati in July, 1998.
